The Bali Pass trek begins in Dehradun. Trekkers should arrive by 6:30 a.m. for the drive to Sankri, the base camp. This scenic journey covers 220 km through adventurous Himalayan paths, with a lunch stop along the way. Sankri, located in Uttarkashi's Govind Wildlife Sanctuary, is a lively village where you'll check into a pre-booked hotel upon arrival. Spend your free time exploring the charming village and its bustling market, with local shops and restaurants. Note that connectivity is limited, with occasional BSNL and Vodafone signals. Enjoy the natural beauty and sunset over the Himalayan peaks before heading back to the hotel for the night.

DAY 2: SANKRI TO SEEMA / OSLA

After breakfast, we'll drive 16 kilometers from Sankri to Gangarh Village, then trek 4 kilometers to Seema/Osla village, a 3-4 hour journey. The trek takes you through the Himalayan landscape, rich with wild orchids. Starting in the valley along the Rupin River, the path descends from Taluka village before climbing again, passing through dense forests of chestnut, walnut, willow, and conifer trees, and by a few waterfalls. By late afternoon, we'll reach Osla village, known for its beautiful architecture, including the intricately carved Duryodhana temple. You'll also experience the charm of Taluka and Dhatmeer villages. Overnight will be in a homestay or campsite in Osla/Seema.

DAY 3 : SEEMA / OSLA TO DEVSU THACH

Start your day early and head out on the trail. After crossing a bridge, look to your right for a wooden bridge over the Supin River. The path is mostly flat before it begins to ascend. After a 30-minute walk, you'll reach Seema, where you'll find Forest and GMVN guest houses and some Dhabas. Cross the Supin River again and follow the trail down to Ruinsara Gorge, enjoying views of a stream and a landslide-prone area. As you near Ruinsara Park, you'll encounter large boulders and get a final view of Osla village. Continue for another 30 minutes to the blooming Devsu Thach meadows, 2 kilometers long. From here, you can see "The Valley of Gods" and "Har Ki Dun Valley" to the left. Set up your tents at the edge of the meadows and enjoy a peaceful night.

DAY 4 : DEVSU THACH TO RUINSARA TAL / LAKE

The trail descends steeply to the Ruinsara River, where you'll cross a wooden bridge after 20 minutes. Proceed into Ruinsara Gorge, navigating level sections and gentle ascents over pasturelands and boulders. Be cautious of landslide-prone areas before encountering a waterfall on the left. The path then descends and ascends through scree and snow-covered meadows. Reach Untigad campsite in about 30 minutes, crossing the Ruinsara River. Continue to Ruinsara Lake through a birch forest and boulder zone. After 45 minutes, you'll reach the lake, which is surrounded by meadows and ideal for camping.

DAY 5 : RUINSARA TAL/ LAKE TO ODAR

Start the day early and continue on the trail; today's trek is not easy and involves cautious crossing. It will include river crossings, rock jumping, and wandering over avalanche areas, all of which will be fun. On the road, the Swargarohini ranges can be seen, and the first snow patches can be seen on the meadows ahead. When you hit the snow line, the climb becomes steep and slick. Join a valley and climb up the first hill; behind you, a snow ridge with Odari ice fields can be seen. The shepherds use Odari, a rock cave, to remain dry throughout the monsoon season. Reach the ice area, which will serve as your campsite for the day and will provide you with spectacular views of magnificent Swargarohini and Bandarpooch.

DAY 6 : ODARI TO BALI COL CAMP

The trek from Odari to Bali Col Camp covers 5 kilometers, with the camp at 15,100 feet. Start southwest along a mountain ridge, with the trail becoming more challenging, especially near the Pass. Carry at least 2 liters of water, as there are no sources along the way. At this high altitude, staying hydrated and active is crucial to prevent Acute Mountain Sickness (AMS). The steep, 60-degree incline makes the ascent demanding. Prepare for cold temperatures and follow your trek leader's acclimatization advice. Rest well and aim to sleep early to be ready for the next day's summit attempt.

DAY 7 : BALI COL CAMP TO LOWER DHAMNI VIA BALI PASS

Today's trek is the most challenging: we reach 16,200 ft at the summit and then descend to Lower Dhamni at 11,100 ft. Begin early, navigating a snow-covered trail to the summit with stunning views of Himalayan peaks. The descent is steep and technical, requiring caution on narrow, loose paths. Stay close to your trek leader and group on the unmarked trail from Upper to Lower Dhamni. The trail flattens out through a forest for the final 2 km to the campsite. Rest well after this demanding day.

DAY 8 : LOWER DHAMNI TO JANKI CHATTI AND DRIVE TO DEHRADUN

Today marks the final day of your trek. The descent is relatively easy, primarily along a cement-paved trail with more downhill sections. It takes about 1 to 2 hours to reach the Yamunotri temple. After visiting the shrine, we will follow the regular pilgrim route to Janki Chatti, a 5 km trek. Transportation will be arranged from Janki Chatti to Dehradun. Departing early, you will head back home with beautiful memories from this incredible offbeat trek.
